HELLENIC HERITAGE:
THE NEW GENERATION OF LEADERS*

19TH ANNUAL LEADERSHIP 100 CONFERENCE

FEBRUARY 4-7, 2010
HOTEL DEL CORONADO
CORONADO, CALIFORNIA

The Torchbearers of Our Faith and Hellenic Heritage: The New Generation of Leaders

The theme of the Leadership 100 19th Annual Conference in beautiful San Diego is The Torchbearers of Our Faith and Hellenic Heritage: The New Generation of Leaders. Fire and light are among the most ancient and meaningful symbols of both our Orthodox Christian Faith and our Hellenic Heritage. Within our Orthodox Christian tradition, fire, especially in the form of a candle flame, represents both the Holy Spirit and light. The sources of these symbols derive from the Bible; for example from the tongues of fire that symbolized the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, and from Jesus' description of his followers as the light of the world. Specifically, in Exodus 13:21, we have: By day the Lord went ahead of them in a pillar of cloud to guide them on their way and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, so that they could travel by day or night. And in Luke 3:16: John answered, saying unto all, I indeed baptize you with water; but one mightier than I cometh, the latches of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire. Fire in Christianity is, then, a symbol of purification and light.

Most of us, however, think of a torchbearer as one who carries the Olympic Flame or Olympic Torch, as a symbol of the Olympics. Commemorating the theft of fire from the Greek god Zeus by Prometheus, its origins lie in ancient Greece, where a fire was kept burning throughout the celebration of the ancient Olympics. The Olympic Torch today is ignited several months before the opening celebration of the Olympic Games at the site of the ancient Olympics in Olympia, Greece.

Furthermore, since the first Olympic Games celebrated in modern times, the Olympic Torch has become a symbol of the peace between the continents, as well as between the Olympians that share this role in our modern celebration.

As we acknowledge The Torchbearers of Our Faith and Hellenic Heritage: The New Generation of Leaders at the Leadership 100 19th Annual Conference, we are mindful of these traditions, symbols and meanings. Of course, we justifiably look with admiration at great world athletes related to the Olympics but we admire even more those who have labored after excellence, committed to their faith and Hellenic ideals.

We gather in San Diego to celebrate some of these individuals: Among them, George Stephanopoulos who has excelled in politics and the media; George Pelecanos who has excelled in the arts and creative writing; George Argyros who has excelled in diplomacy and business; Deborah Szekely who has achieved renown in promoting for the modern world the ancient ideal of a sound mind in a sound body; and Harry Cordellos who overcame what seemed insurmountable obstacles to the ordinary person to actually become a world class athlete, keen in mind and body, faithful and committed to his Hellenic Heritage, and who was a torchbearer in reality, carrying the Olympic flame twice, in the Summer Olympics of 1984 and the Winter Olympics of 2002.

We are blessed with these true achievers and along with them, The New Generation of Leaders within Leadership 100, 87 Leadership 100 Partners, young professionals who have demonstrated not only excellence in their careers but also commitment to their faith and heritage through their philanthropy and service. Furthermore, we witness increasing numbers of younger men and women not only as members of Leadership 100 but serving on its Board of Trustees, truly a hopeful sign for the future of Leadership 100 and for Orthodoxy and Hellenism in America.

Together these torchbearers bring light into our lives and into the life of our Church, into our society and into our world, teaching us always to see our God in the faces of his children and young people, as well as in the young in spirit.

19TH ANNUAL LEADERSHIP 100 CONFERENCE

February 4, 2009

Dear Leadership 100 Members,

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, welcome to the 19th Annual Leadership 100 Conference at Hotel del Coronado, Coronado, California. Our theme is "The Torchbearers of Our Faith and Hellenic Heritage: The New Generation of Leaders," which not only recognizes outstanding leaders who have made unprecedented contributions to American life and have exemplified our Hellenic ideals from diverse fields, but also our youngest leaders who have given new meaning to our mission.

This year's conference is designed to give you three exciting days to stimulate you intellectually, strengthen you spiritually, increase the bonds that tie you to your fellow members, offer the opportunity to meet new friends and celebrate and have fun, Greek-style!

Our Spiritual Leader, His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios will join us to present the Archbishop Iakovos Leadership 100 Award for Excellence to George Argyros, former United States Ambassador to Spain and one of America's foremost real estate investors; George Pelecanos, the award-winning author, film and television producer whose newest book, The Way Home, was on President Obama's reading list this summer; and George Stephanopoulos, the newly-announced co-host of ABC's "Good Morning America", who is currently host of ABC's "This Week with George Stephanopoulos" and ABC News Chief Washington Correspondent. Stephanopoulos was previously President Clinton's senior political advisor and Communications Director.

In addition, we will present the Archbishop Iakovos Leadership 100 Award for Achievement to Harry C. Cordellos, a world class athlete who overcame childhood visual challenges, and to Deborah Szekely, co-founder of the modern day health and fitness movement who is the founder of two leading destination spas, Golden Door and Rancho La Puerta, and is a noted philanthropist and public servant with an inspiring life story.

Our esteemed Metropolitans will join us for a program that includes the General Assembly, where we will be recognizing past members of our Board of Trustees with commendations for their distinguished service, the Grand Banquet and, as a special treat, San Diego's St. Spyridon Greek Dance and Choral School's Aegean and Ionian Dances and Youth Choir who will perform at the traditional Glendi on Friday night.

Thelma and I are especially pleased to welcome our conference sponsors and our new and fulfilled members as we welcome you and present you with a true celebration of the extraordinary success of Leadership 100 as it enters the future.

Warmest Regards,

Stephen G. Yeonas

SPEAKERS

GEORGE PELECANOS

GEORGE STEPHANOPOULOS

George Stephanopoulos, the newly-announced co-host of ABC's "Good Morning America", is currently the Chief Washington Correspondent for ABC News and anchor of ABC's Sunday morning political affairs program, "This Week with George Stephanopoulos." As Chief Washington Correspondent, he oversees the network's coverage of Presidential and Congressional politics and reports on political and policy stories for all ABC News platforms, including "World News with Charles Gibson," "Nightline," "Good Morning America" and ABC News' digital properties, including ABCNews.com and ABC News NOW.

During the 2008 election cycle, Stephanopoulos interviewed every major Republican and Democratic presidential candidate as part of "This Week's" award winning "On the Trail" series, which has been honored with the Annenberg School of Journalism's Walter Cronkite Award for Political Journalism two times in a row in 2007 and 2009. During the 2008 presidential race, Stephanopoulos conducted multiple interviews with Sens. John McCain, R-Ariz., Barack Obama, D-Ill., and Hillary Clinton, D-N.Y. in studio and on the trail. In August 2007, he moderated separate debates for the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates in Des Moines, Ia., the only two Sunday morning debates of the primary cycle. He also moderated a Democratic debate with ABC News' Charles Gibson in Philadelphia in April 2008.

Stephanopoulos has played a pivotal role in the network's coverage of breaking news stories for more than a decade. In spring 2005, he reported from Rome and contributed to ABC News' duPont Award-winning coverage of the death of Pope John Paul II. Following the explosion of the Columbia shuttle, he anchored a two-hour special edition of "This Week" on Feb. 2, 2003. And on Sept. 11, 2001, he was one of the first reporters on the scene at Ground Zero.

Stephanopoulos was named Chief Washington Correspondent in December 2005 and began anchoring "This Week" in September 2002. Previously he was an ABC News correspondent, reporting on a wide variety of political, domestic and international stories for "This Week," "World News Tonight," "Good Morning America" and other ABC News programs and special event broadcasts. He joined ABC News in 1997 as a news analyst for "This Week."

Prior to joining ABC News, Stephanopoulos served in the Clinton administration as the senior adviser to the president for policy and strategy. He is the author of "All Too Human," a No. 1 New York Times bestseller on President Clinton's first term and the 1992 and 1996 Clinton/Gore campaigns.

Stephanopoulos received his Master's degree in Theology from Balliol College, Oxford University, England, where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Columbia University and graduated summa cum laude in political science. He and his wife, Alexandra Wentworth, live in Washington, DC, with their daughters, Elliott and Harper.

George Pelecanos was born in Washington, D.C. in 1957. He worked as a line cook, dishwasher, bartender, and woman's shoe salesman before publishing his first novel in 1992.

Pelecanos is the author of sixteen novels set in and around Washington, D.C.: A Firing Offense, Nick's Trip, Shoedog, Down By the River Where the Dead Men Go, The Big Blowdown, King Suckerman, The Sweet Forever, Shame the Devil, Right as Rain, Hell to Pay, Soul Circus, Hard Revolution, Drama City, The Night Gardener, The Turnaround, and The Way Home.

He has been the recipient of the Raymond Chandler award in Italy, the Falcon award in Japan, and the Grand Prix Du Roman Noir in France. Hell to Pay and Soul Circus were awarded the 2003 and 2004 Los Angeles Times Book Prizes. The Turnaround won the Hammett Prize for literary excellence in the field of crime writing.

Short fiction by Pelecanos has appeared in Esquire and the collections Unusual Suspects, Best American Mystery Stories of 1997, Measures of Poison, Best American Mystery Stories of 2002, Men From Boys, and Murder at the Foul Line. He served as editor on the collections D.C. Noir and D.C. Noir 2: The Classics, as well as The Best Mystery Stories of 2008.

An award-winning essayist, he has written for The New York Times, The Washington Post, GQ, Sight and Sound, Uncut, Mojo, and numerous other publications. Esquire magazine called him "the poet laureate of the D.C. crime world." In Entertainment Weekly, Stephen King wrote that Pelecanos is "perhaps the greatest living American crime writer."

Most recently, Pelecanos was a producer, writer, and story editor for the acclaimed HBO dramatic series, The Wire, winner of the Peabody Award, the AFI Award, and the Edgar. He was nominated for an Emmy for his writing on that show. He is a writer and co-producer on the upcoming World War II miniseries The Pacific, produced by Tom Hanks, Steven Spielberg, and HBO, and is currently at work on David Simon's dramatic series Treme, produced for HBO.

Pelecanos lives in Silver Spring, Maryland, with his wife and three children.

GEORGE L. ARGYROS

The Honorable George L. Argyros served as the United States Ambassador to the Kingdom of Spain and Principality of Andorra from November 2001 to November 2004. During this extraordinary period in Spain's history, Ambassador Argyros' outstanding diplomatic accomplishments included forging a close alliance with King Juan Carlos and former President Jose Maria Aznar that resulted in Spain's support and participation in Operation Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom, guiding the U.S. response to the tragic terrorist bombings in 2003 and implementing new initiatives to assist and promote U.S. trade and investment in Spain.

Ambassador Argyros formerly served as a member of the Advisory Committee for Trade Policy and Negotiations for the U.S. Trade Representative until 1990, when President G. W. Bush appointed him to the board of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (Freddie Mac). He completed his term on the Freddie Mac Board in March 1993.

Born in Detroit, Michigan and raised in Pasadena, California, Ambassador Argyros graduated from Chapman University in 1959 with a major in Business and Economics. He is currently Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Arnel & Affiliates, a prominent West Coast diversified Investment Company, with corporate offices located in Costa Mesa, California. He is also a General Partner in Westar Capital, a private investment company. From 1981-1987, he was co-owner of AirCal, which was successfully sold to American Airlines in 1987; and from 1981-1989, he was owner of the Seattle Mariners Baseball Club of the American League for nine full seasons.

Ambassador Argyros was a 1993 recipient of the Horatio Alger Award of Distinguished Americans and served as President and CEO of the Washington D.C. based Horatio Alger Association from 1995 to 1998, Chairman from 1998 to 2000, and currently serves as Treasurer and Chairman Emeritus. In 2004, he was selected by the Horatio Alger Association to receive the Norman Vincent Peale Award in recognition for his ongoing involvement in the Association and his humanitarian contributions to society. He was the 2007 recipient of the Semper Fidelis Award from the Marine Scholarship Foundation. In June 2005, through the Horatio Alger Association, he and Mrs. Argyros initiated the first national college scholarship program exclusively for veterans who have served honorably in Operation Iraqi Freedom or Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan. As of January 2009, 2,348 scholarships have been awarded to these veterans.

In 1997, Ambassador Argyros received an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree from Pepperdine University; in 2001 he was the recipient of the Ellis Island Medal of Honor; and in 2005 he received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters Degree from Chapman University. He is an Archon in the Order of Saint Andrew of the Ecumenical Patriarchate.

He and his wife, Julia, have been married for 47 years and have three grown children and seven grandchildren.

DEBORAH SZEKELY

Deborah Szekely (pronounced "Say-kay"), is the founder of the New Americans Museum in San Diego, and known worldwide as the founding "godmother" of the mind/body/ fitness movement. The museum is the first to recognize the shifts in population via the recent tidal wave of immigrants, and the importance of connecting these new immigrants with the values of their newly-adopted country and with their peers. "The day will soon be upon us when many of them will become the mayors and council people of our cities. Their votes may well define the future of our country. It is essential that the new immigrants understand our country, our hard-won freedom, and the Bill of Rights. These are our goals," says Szekely.

In 1940 she and her late husband Edmond Szekely founded Rancho La Puerta in Tecate, Baja California, Mexico. In 1958 she alone established the world's premiere spa, the Golden Door, in Escondido, California.

Distinguished as well in public service and philanthropy, Szekely founded Eureka Communities in 1991, a national leadership training program for CEOs of nonprofit organizations, serving as Eureka's President through December, 1995, and is currently Chair Emerita. From 1984 to 1990, she was President of the Inter-American Foundation (IAF), an independent agency of the United States government created by Congress to support self-help efforts of the poor throughout Latin America and the Caribbean. As a U.S. diplomat with the IAF, she traveled to virtually all democratic countries in the Southern Hemisphere and authored program innovations that increased cost effectiveness and accountability of U.S. development efforts.

A publication conceived and launched by her, Setting Course: A Congressional Management Guide, leads a long list of visionary achievements. Now in its 9th edition, Setting Course continues as the basic training and reference manual for newly elected Senators, Congress members, and their staffs.

Among her awards and honors was being named in 2002 by the Presidents of San Diego Rotary as "Mrs. San Diego," "The League of Women Voters Civic Award," "The Committee of 200 Luminary Award for Philanthropy," the "Morgan Award for Community Service" from LEAD; "Humanitarian of the Year" from The National Conference for Community and Justice; "Philanthropist of the Year" by the San Diego Chapter of the National Society of Fund-Raising Executives; and Alexis de Tocqueville Society of United Way, $1 million donor.

SPECIAL APPEARANCE

St. Spyridon Greek Dancers & Youth Choir

HARRY C. CORDELLOS

Harry C. Cordellos, a native of San Francisco and a nationally known motivational speaker who is a visually handicapped world class athlete, will address the 19th Annual Leadership 100 General Assembly on Friday, February 5, 2010. He will be presented with the Archbishop Iakovos Leadership 100 Award for Achievement. An American of Greek heritage, whose father was born in Zante on the Island of Zakynthos, he is a graduate of the City College of San Francisco with an A.A. Degree in Education, he holds a B.S. Degree in Recreation and M.S. Degree in Physical Education from California State University in Hayward, CA.

Cordellos is the author of three books, Breaking Through, an autobiography published in 1981, a textbook entitled Aquatic Recreation for the Blind, published in the mid 80's, and a biography entitled No Limits, which involved a co-author who interviewed people important in his life. He is the recipient of the Tolland Foundation National Award given annually to one who has achieved in sports in spite of a disability or who has contributed to the field of sports for the disabled and the Healthy American Fitness Leader Award, given by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, and has been inducted into the Catalina Island Sports Hall of Fame. He also received the Award of Distinction, given by the American Water Ski Education Foundation. He has water skied annually as a guest at the Cypress Gardens Water Ski show in Florida since 1981. Cordellos also holds the National Marathon record for totally blind runners, (2:57:42) set in Boston, 1975, completed the Hawaiian Iron Man Triathlon in 1981 and received the Award for Excellence, presented by the Dallas White Rock Marathon. He has run 154 marathons, including the Boston, Honolulu, & Long Beach marathons. He carried the Olympic flame for the 1984 Summer Olympics and again for the 2002 Winter Olympics. In 1971, he swam the Golden Gate Bridge crossing. Participating for over three decades, he has rowed, ran and water skied with the San Francisco South End Runners.

Totally without sight, Cordellos not only runs marathons and water skis, but snow skis, plays golf, is a hang glider, and enjoys bowling, ping pong, golf, ice skating and downhill skiing. He is also a crafts specialist and an accomplished musician. Being born blind with glaucoma Cordellos had eight surgeries before he was a year old. At the time there were only about a dozen known infant cases of glaucoma in the Bay Area. Harry had only about 10 percent vision in his right eye, and the ability to identify objects at a distance of about two feet with his left eye. His vision was limited and prevented him from doing much with sports. He graduated Junior High School, where he learned to play clarinet and tenor saxophone, attending special sight conservation classes in which all of the school work was produced in large print. He attended George Washington High School where his sight had improved a bit and his doctor suggested that he try regular classes. While this was the first time in his life that he would learn how to get around on buses and streetcars, his sight failed again as high school neared completion and he became totally blind when he was about 19 years old. After high school, he learned to play both the trombone and the mandolin.

Six more operations could not help Cordellos and he enrolled at the California Orientation Center for the blind in Oakland. He learned how to cross busy streets, communicate with others by Braille and typing, and operate power woodworking tools. In August of 1958 at a weekend social for the California Orientation for the Blind, he learned how to water-ski. As the first full-time blind enrollee at San Francisco College in the early 1960's, Harry was a top-notch photography student. Using the heat of the sun, he could estimate exposure time. He would then page off the distance to calculate focus, tapping his cane to the center of the subject.

St. Spyridon Aegean Dancers

The St. Spyridon Greek Dance and Choral School Performers from St. Spyridon Greek Orthodox Church in San Diego includes The AEGEAN DANCERS, high school-aged young men and women who practice each week after Sunday Liturgy Services. They were founded in the 1970s, to perform at various Church and community functions and private gatherings and for purposes of educating and preserving Greek culture, as well as fellowship with peers. Their repertoire includes a suite of carnival dances from the town of Naoussa in the northern Macedonian area of Greece performed since the 1800s each year during the apokries – or Mardi Gras – season as a memorial tribute to the brave warriors who gave their lives for the liberation of Greece from the Turks. The IONIAN

St. Spyridon Ionian Dancers

DANCERS were organized later to include energetic and talented 11-13 year old boys and girls. They compete at the annual Folk Dance Festival, by dancing authentic dances from various regions of Greece, or by dancing a traditional taverna set of dances at St. Spyridon's Church festival. They also learn about their culture through dances from various regions, including Thrace, Macedonia, and lively dances from the islands. These dancers also perform at retirement centers and at Children's Hospital in San Diego. The award-winning ST. SPYRIDON YOUTH CHOIR, directed by Katherine Loukatos Meck, Music Minister of St. Spyridon Church, is comprised of elementary school-aged children through high school. Members learn and cultivate the Greek Orthodox Hymnology. The Choir has performed at the Metropolis of San Francisco Folk Dance and Choral Festival, various Church and community functions, as well as at nursing homes and hospitals.
