

25TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION CONFERENCE

February 5, 2009

Dear Leadership 100 Members,

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, welcome to the 25th Anniversary Celebration Conference at the beautiful Ritz-Carlton San Juan Hotel in Carolina, Puerto Rico. We are pleased to present you with a true celebration of the extraordinary success of our mission over 25 years in advancing Orthodoxy and Hellenism in America. We will give special recognition to our Founders who have contributed to the success of Leadership 100 by presenting them with the Archbishop Iakovos Leadership 100 Award for Excellence at the Grand Banquet on Saturday night.

Our Spiritual Leader, His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios of America, and our esteemed Metropolitan Athenagoras of Mexcio, Metropolitan Maximos of Pittsburgh and Metropolitan Alexios of Atlanta have joined us to commemorate the historic founding of the Archbishop Iakovos Leadership 100 Endowment Fund, Incorporated.

MARGO AND GEORGE D. BEHRAKIS
CHAIRPERSONS OF 25TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION CONFERENCE

Our 25th Anniversary Celebration Conference Chairpersons, George D. and Margo Behrakis and our conference sponsors have given their untiring efforts and personal financial support to design this conference as a true celebration in lively Puerto Rico with a program featuring leading members and speakers from all fields of endeavor who exemplify the pursuit of excellence and the achievements of Greek Orthodox Americans, including a business panel discussion on important economic issues moderated by George D. Behrakis at the Opening Breakfast and a Forum led by the legendary lawyer, Plato Cacheris, also a member of Leadership 100. We also welcome the Emmy Award winning broadcast journalist, Deborah Norville, host of Inside Edition for more than a decade who will be guest speaker at the Brunch and Spouse Program on Saturday.

We are especially pleased with the outstanding entertainment arranged by George and Margo, which will be highlighted by the preeminent country soul singer, Ronnie Milsap, winner of seven Grammy Awards, as well as the Alpha Band, the best in Greek music.

New members and fulfilled members will receive special recognition and Leadership 100 Partners, our young professionals and future leaders, will gather our young adults for an orientation to our purpose and goals.

In addition, Thelma and I will be pleased to greet you at the Welcome Reception on Thursday night and the Hellenic Festival on Friday night.

Warmest regards,

The Award was established by the Archbishop Iakovos Leadership 100 Endowment Fund, Incorporated in honor of its visionary founder, the late Archbishop Iakovos, and is bestowed on outstanding Greek and Greek American leaders who have excelled in the pursuit of their vocation and exhibited the gift of leadership. In special circumstances, and in the spirit of Philhellenism, the Award is given to an outstanding leader, regardless of religion or national background, who has exemplified the universal values and ideals of Orthodoxy and Hellenism.

Previous recipients were Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, George J. Tenet and Yanni in 2003; Melina Kanakaredes and John D. Negroponte in 2004; Senator Olympia J. Snowe in 2005; Dimitris L. Avramopoulos in 2006; Rudolph W. Giuliani in 2007; and Theodore Angelopoulos and Ambassador Gianna Angelopoulos Daskalaki in 2008.

HISTORIC SHIFT

In a historic shift, due to term limits enacted in 2002, The Board of Trustees in October of 2008 elected three new members to the Executive Committee and eight new members to the Board of Trustees, including filling one vacancy, to take office in 2009. In addition, John A. Payiavlas now becomes a voting member of both the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees as Chairman Emeritus, joining the Life-Time Founding Members.

On the occasion of the vote, Chairman Stephen G. Yeonas spoke of the outgoing members as veterans who had given many years in service to Leadership 100, making enormous contributions in time, talent and treasure. "We look forward to their continued participation, whether on the Board or on our Committees or as members," he said. "We are deeply grateful to them and indebted to them as they collectively represent some of the longest serving and most dedicated of our members, many of whom have served with distinction as officers and heads of committees," he added.

He also invited all outgoing members to join the newly-elected members of the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees at the meetings to be held at this our 25th Anniversary Celebration Conference.

FEATURED SPEAKERS AND ENTERTAINMENT

GEORGE D. BEHRAKIS

Opening Breakfast, 8:45 am-9:30 am, Thursday, February 5

George D. Behrakis, former Chairman of Leadership 100 and Chairman of the 25th Anniversary Celebration Conference, will open the Conference and moderate a business panel discussion on important economic issues, including the outlook for the U.S. and the global economy in 2009 and 2010. The panel includes such prominent business leaders and members of Leadership 100 as Charles H. Cotros, Michael Jaharis, John G. Pappajohn and John A. Payiavlas.

Recognized as a leader in the pharmaceutical field, Behrakis began his career at McNeil Laboratories, a division of Johnson & Johnson. He founded Dooner Laboratories, later sold to Rhone-Poulenc Rorer, and purchased Muro Pharmaceuticals in 1978, which was sold to ASTA Medica AG of Frankfurt, Germany in 1997. He retired as President/CEO of Muro in 1998.

A graduate of Northeastern University, he also studied at Boston University and has established numerous awards, chairs and facilities in the pharmaceutical, scientific and medical fields, at Northeastern, Tufts University, Boston College, Harvard University and The Johns Hopkins University.

PLATO CACHERIS

Forum on Hellenism, 2:30 pm-3:30 pm, Thursday, February 5

Plato Cacheris, one of the nation's preeminent criminal defense lawyers and a member of Leadership 100, is a 1956 graduate of the Georgetown University Law Center. Cacheris served as an officer in the United States Marine Corps from 1951 to 1953, and began his legal career at the U.S. Department of Justice. Subsequently, he established himself as an outstanding criminal defense lawyer, representing clients in some of the nation's most heavily publicized cases, including Watergate and Iran-contra.

The son of a Greek immigrant, who came to co-own a restaurant chain, he attributes his interest in the law to his admiration for a friend of his father's, Achilles Catsonis, who was also a Greek immigrant and a well-respected lawyer in Washington. But his first ambition was to be a foreign service officer. Actually, he wanted to be Ambassador to Greece. Ironically, his best friend from high school, Robert Keeley, did become Ambassador to Greece.

The Cacheris family moved to Washington from Pittsburgh when he was in the seventh grade. He graduated from Western High School, which is now Duke Ellington School for the Performing Arts, in 1947 and enrolled in the Foreign Service School at Georgetown. He planned on taking the foreign service exam after his senior year, but by early summer he was in the Marines. The Korean War broke out in June of 1950. He graduated in 1951 and was therefore eligible for the draft. He enlisted in the Marines officer candidate program.

Subsequently, he graduated from law school and went to work for the U.S. Department of Justice as a prosecutor. At the Department of Justice, he met Bill Hundley, who became his longtime partner. Then, after three years, he went to the U.S. attorney's office for the Eastern District of Virginia. He joined Bill Hundley in 1970, beginning the firm of Hundley & Cacheris, which lasted until 1987.

Among the headline cases handled by the firm was Watergate. John Mitchell, the U.S. Attorney General, engaged Hundley to defend him. Due to the magnitude of the case, Cacheris also worked on Watergate, participating in the Senate committee hearings, the criminal trial before Judge Sirica, and the impeachment hearings in the House Judiciary Committee.

For Cacheris, the Aldrich Ames espionage case was a very serious matter. Ames was a CIA employee accused of spying on behalf of the Soviet Union and giving the Soviets the names of CIA assets operating in Russia. He also represented Robert Hanssen, FBI agent and secret spy for the Soviet Union, working out a plea bargain that allowed him to avoid the death penalty in exchange for revealing all his activities to the government, but not to the public.

Cacheris joined Dunnells, Duval, Bennett & Porter in 1987, but then decided to go back out on his own. He later formed Trout Cacheris, where he currently practices.

RONINIE MILSAP PERFORMS

Grand Banquet, Saturday, February 7

Ronnie Milsap, who ranks as the pre-eminent country soul singer of his generation, will highlight the entertainment at the Grand Banquet on Saturday night, February 7.

Milsap provided country music with one of its most important voices as the genre was moving beyond its rural roots into the mainstream of modern entertainment. Early in life, he found inspiration in a wide variety of music. As he mastered Beethoven and Mozart, his passions turned to country and rhythm-and-blues -- music he heard beamed from powerful radio stations located in Nashville.

Born blind and in poverty in the Appalachian town of Robbinsville, North Carolina, Milsap was sent to the Governor Moorehead State School for the Blind in Raleigh at age six, where he endured strict disciplinary treatment all through his grade school and high school years.

By age 20, he released his first single, "Total Disaster," produced by Huey Meaux on Princess Records. By 1965, the young blind pianist and singer was recording for renowned Scepter Records in New York. His first single, "Never Had It So Good," written by Ashford and Simpson, was a top five hit on the Billboard soul chart. He went on to record R&B-styled songs in Houston and Memphis for a variety of labels, including Warner Bros. and Reprise in 1971 and 1972.

Eventually, as an adult, Milsap forged his myriad of influences into a cosmopolitan style of country music that helped revolutionize Nashville. His track record includes 40 # 1 hits, over 25 million records sold, seven Grammy Awards, four Academy of Country Music Awards, and eight Country Music Association Awards. Together, they underscore Milsap's position as one of the best-loved and most enduring artists in country music history.
